

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A cart, such as a utility cart, includes a base, rolling members connected to the base, and a first platform disposed above the base. The first platform has a first surface configured to support items. The cart additionally includes a handle. The handle includes a frame extending from the first platform and a gripping member with a gripping surface projecting above a plane defined by the first surface.